Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) Policy

“Learning, Caring and Achieving Together”

‘Today’s children and young people are growing up in an increasingly complex world and living their lives seamlessly on and offline. This presents many positive and exciting opportunities, but also challenges and risks. In this environment, children and young people need to know how to be safe and healthy, and how to manage their academic, personal and social lives in a positive way.’ (Secretary of State, July 2019)

Definition: What is Relationships and Sex Education?

Relationships and Sex Education is defined as learning about social, emotional and physical development. It is about understanding the importance of stable, loving relationships, including marriage for family life and to promote respect, love and care. It is about the teaching of sex, sexuality and sexual health at an age appropriate level.

Statutory Requirements

From September 2020 Relationship Education and Health Education is compulsory for all pupils receiving primary education. ‘The Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019, made under sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017, make Relationships Education compulsory for all pupils receiving primary education and Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) compulsory for all pupils receiving secondary education. They also make Health Education compulsory in all schools.’ (Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education Statutory guidance for governing bodies, proprietors, head teachers, principals, senior leadership teams, teachers)

Relationships Education

Relationships Education in primary schools will cover ‘Families and people who care for me’, ‘Caring friendships’, ‘Respectful relationships’, ‘Online relationships’, and ‘Being safe’. The guidance states that by the end of Key Stage 2 all children should know: ‘how to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so’ and should promote equal, safe and enjoyable relationships and be taught in a way which fosters LGBT and gender equality, in line with the Equalities Act 2010.

Sex Education

The DfE recommends that all primary schools ‘have a sex education programme tailored to the age and the physical and emotional maturity of the pupils. Schools are to determine the content of sex education at primary school. By the end of Key Stage 2 sex education ‘should ensure that both boys and girls are prepared for the changes that adolescence brings and – drawing on knowledge of the human life cycle set out in the national curriculum for science - how a baby is conceived and born’

Health Education

Health Education includes an understanding of how to maintain good physical health and mental wellbeing. Pupils should be taught about the benefits and importance of daily exercise, good nutrition and sufficient sleep, and give pupils the language and knowledge to understand the normal range of emotions that everyone experiences. This should enable pupils to articulate how they are feeling, develop the language to talk about their bodies, health and emotions and judge whether what they are feeling and how they are behaving is appropriate and proportionate for the situations that they experience.

Relationships Education, Health Education, science and sex education work together to protect children by ensuring they have knowledge of their bodies, the human life-cycle, emotions, acceptable behaviour and right and wrong. Effective RSE can make a significant contribution to the development of the personal skills needed by pupils if they are to establish and maintain relationships. It also enables children and young people to make responsible and informed decisions about their health and well-being.

Through these subjects we want to support all young people to be happy, healthy and safe – we want to equip them for adult life and to make a positive contribution to society.

Aims

- To promote the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of our pupils.
- To develop pupils' communication skills and assertiveness so that they can make their own responsible and well informed decisions about their lives.
- To prepare pupils for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life
- To encourage pupils to value themselves and others
- To ensure pupils appreciate difference and diversity
- To develop the skills and understanding they need to live safe, confident, healthy and independent lives.
- To promote safety in forming and maintaining healthy relationships
- To provide pupils with a toolkit for understanding and managing their emotions
- To promote how to stay safe online
- To develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- To teach pupils the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies

RSE as part of PSHE

We believe that, to be effective, RSE should always be taught within a broader PSHE education programme. RSE enhances and is enhanced by learning related to topics including anti-bullying; keeping safe on and off line; keeping physically and mentally healthy, learning about drugs, alcohol and tobacco; and the development of skills and attributes such as communication skills, managing peer pressure, resilience and decision making.

Learning in RSE and PSHE will be linked to the curriculum in relevant subjects, such as the Science, Computing, Citizenship and Religious Education.

Values and attitudes

At Farnborough Road Infant School RSE promotes the core values of respect, love and care. It also provides the opportunity for our children to reflect on their own attitudes and beliefs and those of their peers and others.

Organisation

RSE is taught in every year in our school as it helps our children to learn progressively as they mature and revisit the subject on a regular basis, this reinforces learning and provides opportunities to ask further questions.

From Nursery to Year 2 children will discuss and be taught the differences between boys and girls, name body parts, where babies come from, about friends and family, what areas of the body are private and should not be touched and who they can talk to if they are worried, feel uncomfortable or unsafe and can report abuse and get help if needed.

In addition to timetabled RSE lessons we provide enrichment opportunities such as theatre and musical performances.

Sex education in National Curriculum science

Maintained primary and secondary schools must teach the National Curriculum, which includes some sex education within science. Primary science includes pupils learning about parts of the body, growth, reproduction, life cycles and ageing. Key Stage 1 science includes pupils being taught to 'identify, name, draw and label the basic parts of the human body'. Although not mentioned specifically, at Farnborough Road Infant School we feel it is important that pupils are taught the names of the external genitalia and know the differences between boys and girls. This is vital for safeguarding so that a child has language to describe the private parts of their body and to seek help if they are abused.

Inclusion

Every child is entitled to receive RSE regardless of ethnicity, gender, religion, age, culture, disability, language special needs, disadvantaged and looked after children. The Relationship and Sex Education programme will be tailored to the age, emotional and physical maturity of children and will use materials appropriate to that age group. Teachers and/or teaching assistants work with individual pupils where required, and if appropriate to ensure all pupils follow the same access to the RSE/PSHE curriculum.

Consulting pupils

In asking our children's views on RSE we believe it gives them the opportunity to be active citizens, ensures needs are identified and our teaching can meet the specific needs of the children it is aimed at. This discussion takes the form of discussions with small groups of pupils or part of a school council meeting and complements whole class discussions.

We ask pupils:

- Where do you get information about your body, growing up, relationships and feelings?
- Do you feel able to ask for support and advice?
- Do you feel confident talking about feelings and emotions?
- Do you feel safe to learn in PSHE lessons?

Involving parents

Farnborough Road Infant School works in partnership with parents and carers, informing them about what their children will be learning and about how they can contribute at home. The DfE guidance states that all schools must have in place a written policy for Relationships Education and RSE. Schools must consult parents in developing and reviewing their policy. Schools should ensure that the policy meets the needs of pupils and parents and reflects the community they serve. It should be freely available and be published on the school's website.

Opting out

Parents should be informed about their right to opt out of RSE lessons. The Head teacher will automatically grant a request to withdraw a pupil from any sex education delivered in primary schools, other than as part of the science curriculum.

There is no right to withdraw from Relationships Education or Health Education this means no right to withdraw from the teaching expectations.

In Key Stage One our PSHE and RSE education will only include the statutory science curriculum, Relationships and Health Education.

How SRE is taught: learning environment, language and resources

Teaching skills

At Farnborough Road Infant School, we ensure our teachers have excellent subject knowledge and skills using effective use of questioning to challenge pupils' views, deepen thinking and support pupils of different abilities. We have a teacher who leads PSHE who supports our staff through training and continuous professional development.

Learning environment

At Farnborough Road Infant School classes provide an emotionally safe and secure learning environment by agreeing ground rules such as we will be kind to each other, we will listen carefully to each other, we will respect other people's opinions and beliefs and we not use names when speaking about others.

Language and terminology

At Farnborough Road Infant School we believe RSE has a vital role to play in helping children develop a vocabulary so that they can effectively communicate comfortably, respectfully and accurately about the human body, growing up, sex and relationships. This is only possible if adults teaching RSE are able to model use of this type of vocabulary. Key vocabulary lists have been created to support the teaching of RSE and PSED/PSHE from Caterpillars to Year 2.

Classroom resources

At Farnborough Road Infant School we use '1 Decision' resources to support our outstanding PSHE curriculum; supporting learning and promoting inclusive RSE.

Monitoring, Evaluating and Assessing

The RSE scheme of work will be monitored regularly to ensure effective implementation through scrutiny of pupils' work, the impact of lessons will be evaluating by obtaining pupil voice and planning will be modified to improve provision and raise standards.

The PSHE Curriculum is assessed each term measuring pupil's achievements against the lesson objectives. Assessment tasks are built into the end of schemes of work and pupils have a clear idea of their progress.

Links with other policies

RSE has clear links and should be read with other school policies aimed at promoting pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development, including Anti-Bullying Policy • Behaviour Policy • Confidentiality Policy • Drugs Education Policy • Equality Policy • Health, Safety and Welfare Policy • Computing Policy and Safe Internet Use Policy • RE Policy • Safeguarding/Child Protection Policy • Healthy Eating Policy • Special Educational Needs Policy

The role of the Head Teacher

It is the responsibility of the Head Teacher

- To ensure that staff and parents are informed about the RSE policy, and that the policy is implemented effectively.
- To ensure that members of staff are given sufficient training, so that they can teach effectively and handle any difficult issues with sensitivity.
- To liaise with external agencies regarding the school RSE programme and ensures that all adults who work with children on these issues are aware of the school policy, and that they work within this framework.
- To monitor this policy on a regular basis and report to governors, when requested, on the effectiveness of the policy.
